BOARD OF HEALTH REPORT

Since the last Board of Health report it has been the will of our Heavenly Father to call from our midst Doctors Charles E. Newell and Geo. H. Beckley, who served you as Health officers, and I wish to recall to your minds their faithful services. In the early months of 1925, there were many cases of whooping cough, and scarlet fever made its appearance in several homes. The cases were not of severe types and all recovered. There are no homes in quarantine at this time from any disease. I should like to call attention to the destruction of all waste matter and hope all will use the dump as provided for such waste and not cause any disease to propagate. The placing of decaying matter about our buildings and grounds may be the cause of great expense and illness among us. Let us all try and keep our town in the best possible condition as to all sanitary matters.

SAMUEL J. COGSWELL,

Feb. 21, 1925.

Health Officer.

DERRY PUBLIC LIBRARY

Annual Report of the Trustees

For the Year Ending Feb. 1, 1925 -

During the past year the Library has met with a distinct loss in the death of Rev. J. H. Nichols, President of the Trustees since the founding of the Library. His loyal support and interest will be greatly missed.

The work of the Library for the year is so clearly and fully reported by the Librarian that nothing additional seems necessary, unless we emphasize the need of more room--; both Library and reading room are overcrowded and more room must be obtained if the Library is to meet the growing needs of the town.

The increased patronage of the Library is its best claim to the liberal support of all our citizens.

Respectfully submitted,

NELLA F. CALAHAN,
HARRIETT D. LOW,
MARY H. MESERVE,
CHARLES H. CLEMENT.

LIBRARIAN'S REPORT

Derry, N. H., Feb. 2, 1925.

To the Trustees of the Derry Public Library:

The 20th annual report is herewith presented:

The year of 1924 has been one of great gain in library work. The circulation began to increase more than a year ago and every month has shown a substantial gain over the same month of the preceding year. The circulation has this year reached the highest figure in the history of the library. A glance back over the 20 years work may prove interesting. The first annual report showed in the library:

1st report 1,229 books and a circulation of 9,747 vols.

5th report 2,735 books and a circulation of 20,994 vols.

10th report 4,939 books and a circulation of 34,587 vols.

15th report 6,414 books and a circulation of 37,028 vols.

Present report 7,820 books and a circulation of 42,838 vols.

The gain the past year is 6,431 vols. or 15%. Perhaps the daily average of 140 makes one realize better the large number of books which are being issued for home use. This does not include the books which are consulted in the library.

I believe the chief cause which has given this result has been the generous appropriation made by the town. I feel that the money has been wisely expended and for the best interests of the patrons and their appreciation is manifest in their increased patronage. 553 books have been added, besides the supply of current books purchased. We have been enabled to discard some rather disreputable volumes and replace with clean new ones and to buy attractive illustrated editions of some of the classics. I trust that a similar appropriation may be granted for the ensuing year.

A bulletin of books added during the year was printed in March and has been of value to many. I most heartily recommend that this be again prepared and distributed to those desiring it.

The privilege of having books reserved has grown in popularity and words approving the practice are frequently heard.

On account of the illness of the librarian last June no vacation reading club was arranged but children who requested were guided in their summer reading. I hope a club may be organized next summer as there were many inquiries for it last year.

"Children's Book Week" was observed in November. one of the features being a poster contest. Cash prizes were given to the following: Doris Dionne, Louis Page, Irma Hollingshead, Evelyn Becker, Louise Holm, and Frederick Wood. Attractive editions of Children's books were on exhibit during the week and interested many, the following week they were put into circulation.

The library co-operated with others in the observance of "Thrift Week." Many books on the subject were displayed and circulated.

We are working under disadvantage from the fact of our limited space. The reading room at times contains twice as many people as there are chairs to accommodate them. This means confusion and requires the presence of a worker in the room to keep order that reading and study may be uninterrupted. The shelf space is also filled and new stacks must be purchased soon. Where to put these is a pertinent question as all desirable space is now occupied and more floor room than we now have, should be provided.

Ten books were purchased with the interest of the Sarah A. Gibson MacMurphy Fund and appropriately inscribed.

Two busts, a large one of Beethoven and a smaller one of Byron have been presented to the library by Mrs. Alice Weston, which add to the decorations of the room.

During the summer it became necessary for another person to be taught the work of second assistant. Mrs. Lois Clark was first engaged but in December was obliged to give up the work and Miss Edith Hall filled the vacancy and has served acceptably since. The Librarian very much appreciates the faithful and efficient service of the regular assistant, Mrs. Lena Howe.

I present the following statistics:

REPORT OF SUPERINTENDENT OF SCHOOLS

To the Derry School Board:

I take pleasure in submitting to you my fifth annual report. The outstanding features of the work pertaining to the schools during the past year appear to have been an increased attendance, reorganization of health work, increased efficiency in teaching, individual studies of the capacities and abilities of each pupil, a study of the vocational guidance and needs of the town, and a more effective adaptation of the teaching according to the needs disclosed.

ATTENDANCE

While the enrollment has increased somewhat the past few years the attendance has shown a gradual improvement.

	Average absence
1921-1922	43.03
1922-1923	48.51
1923-1924	35.

Translated into words our daily absence has decreased from forty-eight pupils each day to thirty five pupils. Thirteen more children attended each day last year than the total enrollment discloses if we take into account the number of pupils actually in school each day. This is a commendable improvement in our schools, an achievement of which parents, pupils and teachers may well be proud.

Cost per Pupil of Average Attendance:

I have selected at random from a recent state report the cost per pupil of average attendance of seven towns having a population nearly the same as Derry. In the cost of these elementary schools is included the expenses of administration, fixed charges and per capita tax in addition to the charges to elementary schools under instruction, operation and maintenance of school plant, and auxiliary agencies and special activities.

Franklin	$88.69
Hanover	82.86
Somersworth	77 13
Claremont	69.92
Gorham	68.61
Laconia	58.71
Derry	52.15
Milford	51.38

Making an allowance of $3.50 per pupil that Derry receives from state aid, the actual cost of schools for the purposes of taxation is only $48.85 per pupil. Without going into detail relative to the expenditure of the school funds, it is obvious that Derry is receiving a great deal in return for the amount of money expended.

Manchester is now employing teachers of experience and requisite training at an initial salary of $1,500.00. Such a policy is undoubtedly the best policy to pursue, because the teacher is the most important item to be considered in the school expenditures.

Tests:

In order to determine, as accurately as practicable, the abilities of the children and their capacity for work tests have been given, during the past few years, to all of the children. The tests included mental ability, accuracy and facility in the use of figures, power to think in the solution of problems, spelling, punctuation, capitalization, sentence structure, grammar, the rate of reading and the ability to understand what was read.

The results disclosed that in each class there was a wide range of ability, some were advanced in grade, but as far as possible each child was placed in a group of children having approximately his working rate and the work and rate of progress was adapted to the group consistent with thorough instruction. No child was put back a grade. Such a method of classification reduces the number of failures. By employing a maximum course of study for the bright pupils and a minimum course of study for the slower pupils there is a normal development for each child and a happier progress through the school. Many of the industrious pupils have made up for their lack in general ability, while many of the children really brilliant for their ages and grades have to meet requirements of a maximum amount of work.

SCOPE

The problem in the Derry schools is not the necessity of more rapid advancement through the grades, but the enrichment of the work, widening its scope, and increasing its requirement so that such children will be required to work with interest and application and thus develop their inborn gifts. A school that can rightly make these distinctions of ability, give each child the largest opportunity possible to develop according to his ability, and to train each to exert himself to his fullest capacity would indeed be a great school.

Derry has already made a good beginning toward this end. The organization of the junior school greatly helps to classify the pupils so that they may develop according to their needs and capacities. The junior high school is the try-out school where young people are expected to find themselves. The pupil should be exposed to as many subjects as possible and to as many of the actual conditions which arise in life as possible without allowing him to become fickle, changeable or always seeking the easiest course. The old type of school stood for culture, while the modern school stands for experience or life itself, rather than preparation for life. The junior school seeks to reconcile these aims and to inculcate the freedom to work problems at one's own rate of speed without irksome restrictions. The school seeks to develop the same relationships in school that are developed in life outside. The big question ever before the pupil in this school is "Is my conduct socially valuable to my fellow pupils or not?" Nothing is imposed upon the pupils but the spirit of the social group is sought to be inherently developed within the pupils.

INDIVIDUAL INSTRUCTION

There is one other phase of the new work I would like to present. It is the method of permitting each pupil to progress at his own rate of ability, alluded to previously, in such subjects as are adapted to an individual method of development by the pupils themselves. In these classes the pupil becomes his own teacher and depends upon himself by making sure of knowing his own work day by day, criticising it and marking his own papers. The pupil literally dissects and reconstructs the subject matter presented. He calls for assistance only in case he cannot solve his problem correctly in which event he is permitted to seek assistance from other pupils in his own group or he may consult the teacher. Promotion in each step of the work is dependent upon the correct solution of the problem presented.

For example in English grammar the pupil must be able to solve correctly the problems presented upon each topic before he is permitted to pass on to the next problem. The problems are: 1. the sentence; 2. parts of sentence; 3. the sentence compared with phrases and clauses; 4. kinds of words; 5. analysis of simple sentences; 6. analysis of compound parts of simple sentences; 7. punctuation of simple sentences; 8. analysis and punctuation of compound sentences; 9. analysis of complex sentences; 10. analysis and punctuation of sentences; 11. a study of the forms of pronouns and nouns; 12. the correct use of pronouns; 13. a study of the forms of verbs; 14. correct use of verbs; 15. the correct use of verbs and pronouns; 16. a study of the forms and uses of adjectives and adverbs; 17. the correct use of prepositions and conjunctions; 18. a study of the correct sentence structure and punctuation.

SPECIAL CLASS

In addition to the try-out courses in practical arts a class for over-age pupils has been established, in the junior school. About twenty children fourteen years of age or over have been transferred to this school. Here they receive special instruction in the fundamentals according to their needs in ungraded classes. They are permitted to attend the regular classes in the content subjects such as history, science, civil government, music etc. The teachers in the regular classes report that over half of these pupils have made good in their classes. A number of them have succeeded in overcoming their backwardness and have entered the grade work of the school. This class functions so as to enable the pupils to adjust themselves better to their school work and in such a manner that no stigma attaches to it.

VOCATIONAL GUIDANCE

Undoubtedly the greatest weakness of our present school system is that there is no connecting link between the child who has gone to work and the school, either to follow and advise him or to open the way to return to school. In order to make the most of the pupil vocationally we must make the most of the pupil educationally. To do this we must make a careful study of his needs, desires and abilities.

Statistics in our local office show that children securing working certificates go into what are termed blind alley jobs, as running errands and other such occupations requiring little or no skill. These chances to work provide slight hope for improving their field of work either for those they work for or for themselves. The necessity of the children having a better perspective of what the world has to offer in return for their aptitudes, talents and abilities and a more wholesome understanding of the happiness and enduring satisfactions to be derived from work well performed has prompted a short study of what our own community offers in a school system and the opportunities for employment it has to offer.

Many thanks are due the junior school for the valuable assistance rendered in compiling the statistics of the brief study.

The school System consists of:

Elementary Schools, six grades.

Junior High School, two grades.
 Prevocational courses in embryo.
 Senior High Academic, four years.
 Agricultural Course.
 Household Arts Course.
 Commercial Course.
 Academic Course
 College Prep. Course.

The offering of the whole system is of the general education type. The titles of the courses in the high school would indicate there are some vocational courses. Such a small percentage of the pupils who complete the courses are actually placed in positions calling for specific vocational training that it is probably inaccurate to call them strictly vocational. Graduates from these vocational courses find themselves in about the same occupations in after life as the graduates from the academic courses.

Opportunities for employment in Derry:

Manufacturing	Matresses	Labels
Shoes	Rigs for looms	Printing
Butter	Reeds	Agriculture
Boxes	Plant sticks	221 Farms
Electricity	Mercantile Establishments	78

These mercantile, industrial and agricultural establishments call for employees in the following occupations:

Accounting	41	Auto Mechanics	15
Bookkeepers	36	Barbers	12
Bakers	12	Carpenters	25
Clerks	80	Clergymen	7
Conductors	8	Druggists	6
Dentists	4	Electricians	12
Dressmakers	18	Engineers	12
Gardeners	2	Farmers	450
Foremen	44	Inspectors	3
Laborers	472	Laundryess	30
Machinists	16	Musicians	21
Music Teachers	14	Masons	10
Housekeepers	1,500	Plumbers	8

Painters	30	Paper hangers	15
Printers	12	Shoe workers	1,500
Salesmen	80	Ry. Employees	10
Waiters	22	Teachers	48
Undertakers	5		—
	—		2,174
	2,396	Forward	2,396
		Total	4,570

The above list of occupations and the estimated number of persons engaged in them in Derry discloses the major opportunities for service in a town of approximately 6,000 inhabitants. Pupils, who drop out of school before the expiration of their high school course of study, unless they move out of town, almost inevitably find themselves working in some one of these occupations upon a per diem basis.

It is noteworthy that, of these children between 14 and 16 employed, all of them are in minor positions requiring but little or no skill and have little or no prospect for advancement.

PART TIME SCHOOLS

There are no continuation schools, no part time schools, no vestibule schools. In the absence of such schools these children 14 to 16 would be vastly better off in school where the local authorities are endeavoring to improve the provisions for their vocational welfare. As a matter of fact these children are the very children who need to be in school.

I. A School Program

A school program should be adopted that is appealing in character and career, compelling in purpose, a program that will guide the child to an appreciation of his own abilities and the opportunities the world affords, both to establish himself vocationally, and to be of abundant service to humanity.

The joy and rewards that come from a genuine social service on the part of the child are phases of the school program not to be lightly dealt with.

"Service to humanity as a means for the achievement of a well-rounded, self-respecting life should be stressed."

The fact that a democracy such as ours needs trained men, men of courage and conscience and men of responsibility is the challenge to the public school. To the public school is given the problem of getting the individual into the right adjustment with the generation of which he is a part. The school must develop the child so that he will realize his full powers as a member of society, in the school, the home, the church and other community organizations. It must give him training in the fundamental mechanics of life plus the ability to interpret the meaning and significance of life. This means guidance, educational and vocational.

The services of a teacher of occupations who would guide the children in their try-out courses, studies of occupations, and selection of an occupation (educational or vocational) would undoubtedly repay the town many times his salary in preventing the waste of time and effort when a child attempts to establish himself.

Such a teacher would assist the child in making his choice of an occupation either in an educational or a vocational field, and in preparing for the occupation. She would help him secure his position and would counsel him in securing progress and promotion in his chosen occupation. She would influence him to enter school to secure proper training for promotion or in choice of an occupation. In short such a teacher would serve as a guide for a better educational and vocational adjustment of the children of our schools.

It is commendable for Drs. Cogswell and Sanders to assist the school nurse in the examination of school children and the rest of the examination will be completed as soon as the other physicians are available. The examinations disclose a marked improvement in the general health of the pupils and it will be noted from a study of the statistics that an increasing number of pupils are having corrective work done.

The dental clinic did good work last fall. Preparations are being made to establish a nutrition clinic with the assistance of the Derry Woman's Club. The tonsil and adenoid clinic will be open in the spring and summer vacations at the Floyd School. Many thanks are due the Derry Woman's Club for two sets of scales for weighing and measuring the children.

As the health work is now organized homes are visited, needy children cared for and each pupil is tested frequently as to his health and physical ability and if found defective is recommended for the proper medical attention or health building program. This plan and the further adaptation of the instruction to the needs and abilities of the children, as previously stated, requires a careful study of each child. These things are sure to make the school work more thorough in instruction and effective for the development of healthy active children able to think and accomplish.

There are many other phases of the routine of the school work in Derry I would like to report upon but I realize that a town report has its limits. I take this opportunity, however, to express my sincere appreciation of your hearty co-operation, and that of the teachers, parents and citizens. All of us are working to the same end.

Respectfully submitted,

CARL COTTON,

Superintendent of Schools.
